Senator Hancock Elected Republican Caucus Chairman

AUSTIN - Today, Senator Kelly Hancock (R-North Richland Hills) was named Chairman of the Senate Republican Caucus. Hancock's colleagues elected him to the leadership role in a unanimous vote of confidence at the State Capitol.

"It's an honor to serve as Chairman of the Senate Republican Caucus for the 84th Legislative Session," said Hancock. "I look forward to working diligently on common sense, conservative issues with Vice-Chairman Brandon Creighton and other members of the Caucus. We know the people of Texas have spoken loud and clear about the way our state government should function, and we intend to act."

The Senate Republican Caucus meets regularly throughout each legislative session to discuss policy positions and prepare for floor votes. As Chairman, Senator Hancock will work to build consensus within the caucus membership and serve as a resource for his Republican colleagues.
